The 10 Commandments of Great Worship Team Members. Sometimes I lead the worship band and sometimes I play in the band. Both are important roles and have specific responsibilities to do them well. As both a leader and a player/singer, here are my 10 most important rules as a team member: 1.

The 10 Commandments of Great Worship Team Members

One simple rule is that if it takes the worship team an entire week to learn the words and music to a new song, the people in the congregation probably won't pick it up in three to five minutes! Simply put, praise and worship should be sweet and simple. In this sense, "less is more."

Do's and Don'ts of Praise and Worship by Philip Renner

Praise and worship teams differ from choirs in that they tend to sing more contemporary, upbeat worship songs rather than traditional hymns. The praise and worship team is also responsible for setting the mood and engaging the congregation during the worship service. This is the goal of praise and worship in every service. How to reach that goal requires commitment — including multiple rehearsals each week — and maturity in your own spiritual walk. The following are some "do's and don'ts" of praise and worship that can help ministers and their worship leaders lead others into heartfelt, undistracted, and meaningful worship of God. #1: DO Spend Time in God's Presence for Yourself. The saying is true that you cannot give what you do not have.

Do's and Don'ts of Praise and Worship Part 1 by Philip Renner

Praise and worship should also be extended to private times between just you and God. Living a daily lifestyle in keeping with God's commandments is also a form of praise and worship. Physical manifestations of praise might include singing, dancing, the raising of hands, bowing, the playing of instruments and other forms.

The Importance of Praise and Worship - Winning God's Way

There is no calling issued for "performances" and "showmanship" - - only true praise and worship. Therefore, members must strive continually through prayer and example to be pure of heart before God and others.
